AALA Makes College Dreams Come True!

Scholars Will Be Highlighted Beginning This Week

On May 18, 2023 AALA hosts forty three LAUSD scholars and their parents/ guardians at Luminarias for an evening of celebration and recognition. Honorees represent every district Region and attend small schools, pilot schools, magnet programs and comprehensive high schools. Each with a college dream, each juggling academics, community service, or even part-time work to help their family make ends meet. (See page 6 for Community Volunteer Award recipients).

College-bound students are not “grown” in high schools. Dreams are sown as early as preschool or kindergarten. Ask any primary school youngster and they will tell you that when they grow up they want to be a doctor, a fireman, a teacher or President of these United States! Elementary schools nurture these dreams as students become proficient in reading, writing, and mathematics. Upper elementary grades see students transition from learning to read, to reading to learn. Content literacy takes center stage.

Middle schools become the stepping stone where students learn to navigate through several teachers and personalities as well as explore careers, all while hormones are raging. Programs such as GearUp and AVID focus on study skills, organization, speakers and college visits, helping students develop the mind set that they have college potential regardless of their background. Linked Learning programs can begin in middle school, providing college and career readiness through rigorous instruction, career-technical education and work-based learning.

When students step on a high school campus they have eight, nine or more years of schooling to build on and bring their college dreams with them. Senior high schools expose students to many course options including honors and Advanced Placement, math pathways that lead to Pre-Calculus, AP Calculus, Statistics, or Discrete Math. All students must complete California's minimum A-G college entrance requirements as well as state and district requirements. Linked Learning, GearUp and AVID programs continue building college and career readiness. Senior high schools have College and Career Counselors to help students navigate through college visits, SAT and ACT preparation, applications, financial aid, and college selection. Every student has a different dream, some may select a technical program at a community college or a trade school, others may choose a university, and many see community college as a stepping stone to a university. Whichever road is taken, each leads students to their dream career.

It truly takes a village, a pre-K to 12th grade one, to help students reach their post-secondary dreams. However, sometimes there is still one major obstacle, the almighty dollar. With the cost of higher education growing exponentially, students with limited means look towards financial aid and scholarships to help keep them out of debt.

Here is where Friends of AALA steps in! This year over two hundred fifty students applied for a Friends of AALA scholarship. Forty three deserving students were selected to receive a $2,500 scholarship and fifteen students will receive a $1,500 scholarship. Think about it, $130,000 raised and awarded this year alone!

Every week AALA asks you to support Friends of AALA and an annual appeal is made to AALA Alumni (retirees). Our AALA Angels take a tax-deductible payroll deduction of as little as $5 per month. AALA Alumni make donations, and AALA President Nery X. Paiz works closely with private foundations as well as corporate and individual sponsors to secure donations ranging from $1,000 to $20,000. While AALA has individually or family-funded memorial scholarships, the vast majority are funded through AALA Angels, AALA Alumni, and corporate and individual sponsors.

Now the ask. Are you an AALA Angel? If you answer no, why not? For as little as the cost of a latte you too can fund college dreams! Are you ready to join? Click HERE and earn your AALA Angel wings! All donations to FRIENDS OF AALA are tax deductible.

AALA Loses Friend and Colleague Jane Pollock

Jane Pollock, esteemed consultant to AALA for 23 years, was a former teacher and counselor at Venice High School, Assistant Principal SCS at Revere Middle School and University High School, Advisor and Coordinator of Special Programs at the Senior High Schools Division, and Coordinator at the Office of School Operations. For many years, Ms. Pollock oversaw the scoring center at the Annual LAUSD Academic Decathlon with her husband, former Assistant Principal SCS Jack Pollock. Her responsibilities at AALA included coordinating the reading of scholarship applications and the scholarship banquet and organizing the Fall Welcome Reception and Spring Alumni Luncheon. Ms. Pollock retired from the District in January 2000, and continued her work with AALA through 2023. She passed away on May 6, 2023.

Healthcare FAQs: Do You Need a Knee Replacement?

What are some signs that I might need knee replacement surgery?

Do you have pain, stiffness, and/or swelling from arthritis or other joint problems that interfere with your everyday activities? Do you have trouble walking up and/or down a staircase? Do you wake up at night with knee pain? Have you tried exercise, weight loss, braces, shoes inserts, and/or pain medications to improve knee function and pain? If one or more of these symptoms occur regularly, your physician or orthopedist may recommend a partial or total knee replacement, also known as total knee arthroplasty (TKA). For the 800,000 U.S. adults who have TKAs completed each year, osteoarthritis is the most common reason.

What is osteoarthritis? Are there other arthritic conditions that also can damage the knees enough for a knee replacement?

- Osteoarthritis –As we grow older, the cartilage that cushions our joints wears down, causing the bones of the joint to rub together. Bone spurs may form, resulting in pain, swelling, and stiffness. According to estimates by the Centers for Disease Control, over 32.5 million adults have osteoarthritis, a condition that can't be cured or reversed. It can be managed to some extent through exercise, physical or occupational therapy, pain medication, knee injections, acupuncture, massage, and weight loss, if overweight. Osteoarthritis is a degenerative disease.

- Rheumatoid arthritis – This may be both inflammatory arthritis and an immune disease where fluids build up in the joints causing pain and inflammation in the joints throughout the body.
- Post-traumatic arthritis– This form of osteoarthritis usually occurs after a knee injury such as a fracture or ligament tear that may cause inflammation and disalignment of the knee, leading to cartilage damage over time. An injury suffered earlier in life can cause arthritis at middle age or later. Trauma to the knee may also result in avascular or osteonecrosis where bones lose their blood supply, die, and eventually collapse.

What happens during total knee replacement surgery?

There are four basic types of knee replacement procedures: total knee replacement, partial knee replacement, kneecap replacement, and complex or revision knee replacement. The procedure for a total knee replacement first began in 1968 and involves removing, resurfacing, and placing metal or synthetic caps over the damaged femur, tibia, and patella. The knee joint is then put back together with a spacer to enable smooth joint movement. Minimally invasive knee replacement was introduced in the 90's with smaller incisions and specially designed instruments to prepare the bones and place the implant caps. Since this procedure involves less muscle disruption, post-operative recovery can be shorter and less painful. The newest procedure for knee replacement is robot-assisted arthroplasty. The surgeon performs minimally invasive surgery with a robotic arm for pre- and intraoperative assistance to get accurate bone resurfacing, bone cap sizing, and postoperative knee alignment. This procedure may result in greater precision in resurfacing, knee alignment, and shorter hospital stay.

Are there people who shouldn't have knee replacement surgery?

Although knee replacement is now a common major surgery, it is not for everyone. You may not be a good candidate for surgery if you have a knee infection, a severe nerve disorder, or severe blood vessel disease. Doctors may also not recommend surgery if you are very overweight, have heart or lung disorders that could complicate surgery or anesthesia, or have a skin condition where the incisions would be made. Confer with your primary care physician and the orthopedic
